

REC-Filmfestival 2014

The festival for young film-directors

3rd to 6th of December 2014 at the ufaFabrik, Berlin-Tempelhof

The awarded films 2014

The golden Clip goes to:

Die Piraten by the Rosa-Parks-Grundschule (Germany)

We want to support young filmmakers. We want to animate them to be creative. We want to urge them to make a movie of their crazy ideas. We are happy when they operate in a diverse and experimental way. Most important about making films is having fun! As soon as the filmmaker has fun and understands to bring this fun to the audience, everyone enjoys the movie. Alright, crazy pirates, you accomplished all of that! Great! Cool! Super-duper! The Jury agreed: The first price goes to you! Why? Because we want to encourage you to keep on making movies. Why? Because we believe in you and your ideas to come. Why? Because what we saw in your pirate movie was full of ideas, fun, creativity, and being funny, we were entertained through the entire 8 minutes.

The silver Clip goes to:

Der Hammer by Vincent Märkl (Switzerland)

It is often the small things that make life special. This year it was the shortest film that held the biggest surprise. The most humble story brought to life by simplest means can bring us the biggest joy and make us laugh. And that is precisely what makes it a great film, it touches us. Using their playful and childish enthusiasm, Vincent Märkl and Sarina Peter from Switzerland have proven that the little ones can make big films!

Honorable Mentioning:

Jimba – Eine Idee wird lebendig by Valentin Wojtaszkiewicz (Germany)

Your movie originally showed the process of making films. You definitely visualised entertainingly how difficult it can be to get the right idea for a movie and to inspire the audience. In the end you, as a filmmaker, convinced the Jury and the audience with your exceptional talent by making „Jimba“. At REC for Kids we discovered how talented you are making movies and we are sure you will make it far!

Stinkalot by Magne Skagen (Norway)

Your imaginative and extremely lovable protagonist Stinkalot captured everybody's heart. Your short film is an entertaining mix of live action and animation which finally gives us some answers to the most important questions in life as for instance: Why do all shoes smell so badly? Thank you for taking us into the mysterious world of Stinkalot! Please keep up the awesome and inspirational work!

Schüler Tools from the Grund- und Mittelschule Unterwössen (Deutschland)

What we saw was a real scene of the students world. Great! A lot of modern and professional movies can't keep up with this fantastic movie. Slapstick, humour, unique characters and acting on a high level... 13 minutes of great fun for the jury! Congratulations to the entire team and our advice to you: keep on making films, school has one-thousand themes which would be great to be seen in more movies with your style: funny, creative and original! We are really looking forward to your next movie!

CUT - Drei Schnitte. Drei Schritte von Nastasja Mengel + Jule Wagner (Deutschland)

CUT shows how important Film can be as a medium to make aware of problems, to discuss and explain them, and even to heal. The sensitivity in which the filmmakers approached their topics and the extraordinary courage of the protagonists sharing their story impressed the jury deeply. Therefore we honor the filmmakers with the Special Mentioning.
